Commissioner's Comments

Steve has a bunch of upside WR2s on his roster, but no legit WR1. He is praying Breida will emerge in the Bay. Bell is already destined for a slow start with his holdout. Steve could be digging himself a big hole to climb out of early in the season.

Commissioner's Comments

Melvin in the 1st over Antonio Brown or Saquon was mystifying. Reed in the 6th was a reach, but if you are going to draft an injury prone player you better get a backup. On the positive, Rodgers in the 5th was a nice value. Maybe this year he can stay healthy. WRs look above average, but RBs are weak behind Gordon. It's looking like Travis will have to fight to stay off the Crapper again this year.

Commissioner's Comments

I can't give any higher than a D to a team which selects a defense in the 6th round! Even if it is the top defense, 8th round is the earliest a player should pick a defense and only if they have a strong RB/WR core. Saquon should be a stud for Paul the next 4 years as a keeper, but he will have to do a better job in future drafts building around Saquon if he wants to finish better than 10th place.

Commissioner's Comments

Dana benefitted from some interesting early draft picks by others and some tips from Tracy and me. She knows how to play the damse in distress role well. Njoku in the 7th as the 8th TE was too early, but he could still pay off. She could afford a mispick after Antonio Brown dropped to her in the 1st round. She is solid at RB and has both elite WR talent and depth. With 4 Steelers on her roster, she wins the homer award this year. After flirting with the Crapper last year, she is in a good starting position to win the Broads division this year.

Commissioner's Comments

This is what happens when you don't come to the live draft. After Zeke, Linda's RBs are pathetic. Julio and JuJu are a nice combo, but the lack of WR depth is alarming. None of her 3 TE's are difference makers. She should have just kept ASJ and Doyle and drafted another WR in the 15th. With week 9 byes, there was plenty of time to figure out which one could have been dropped later. I am looking forward to Linda coming to the live draft next year, so we can mock her sitting on the

I would have preferred Freeman/Howard over Cook/McCoy. He did get Latavius, but I am worried that it will be more of a timeshare this year in the Vikings backfield. If Corey Davis can emerge, maybe Buhrle can trade for an upgrade at RB to give him a better chance in the Bros division.

Commissioner's Comments

Justin's team has the analysts mixed. Guru thinks his team will be bottom half, but the Football Guys think he has playoff potential. It's easy to see why. There are a lot of question marks on many of these players. Can Luck return to his QB1 form? What will Ty's role be? Can Fuller stay healthy?? Will Geronimo emerge? This is a boom/bust team.

Commissioner's Comments

Gary is going to make it a fight to see who will reign over the Beards division. Having 2 stud RBs as keepers makes it easy to build a championship caliber team. However, Gary's WR corps is his Achilles heal. Both Allen and Alshon are returning from major injuries. Watkins hasn't shown he can be more than a decoy over the past couple years. He will need A.J. to be top 5 to overtake Tracy and me.

Commissioner's Comments

Tough start for Krug learning his #1 keeper is out for the season with a torn ACL. Picking Rudolph over Delanie was a missed opportunity. The Mack pick in the 4th was way to early. So many better backs available there which would given him a better chance to compete. It's going to be a long season for Krug.

Commissioner's Comments

It's very hard to screw up your draft when you start with 2 top 5 running backs. Tracy is used to making risky moves. Drafting Josh Gordon in the 4th is the perfect Tracy pick. I think I drafted more depth overall, but Tracy's starting lineup is stronger. As long as injuries don't hit Tracy's team, I will have an uphill battle to usurp the current Champion.

Commissioner's Comments

I am not sure how this draft could have gone any better for me. ODB falling to me was a good sign of things to come. With Dana taking Njoku so early, I thought I screwed myself picking Kupp instead of Olsen in the 8th round. Lucky for me, the cheatsheet everyone else was using must have had Olsen hidden because he somehow fell to me in the 9th. The only position I missed out on my targeted group was at defense, but I can live with that. With 3 strong teams in the Beards division, I will need to stay focused if I am to win a 4th straight Beards division title and chance to regain the Belt.
