Commissioner's Comments

When you disrespect THE CRAPPER, expect to be CURSED! Since the start of our league, no team has repeated on the Crapper, but I am calling it now! Beavis Buhrle's team will be CURSED for refusing to sit on THE CRAPPER to remove the bad mojo from his previous season. The only way this team could compete would be in a zero RB league.

Commissioner's Comments

Steve having a good season is about as assured as Dalvin Cook's health. I really liked Steve's draft approach right up to him picking a kicker who had been cut. At least that is an easy mistake to fix. His QBs are a little flat when it comes to upside, but they should be adequate. It was best for him to focus long and hard (something Lisa hasn't seen in a long time) on his RBs and WRs to build depth and pray for a breakout or two.

Commissioner's Comments

Tracy needs to rename his team to the "Domestic Abusers", since he has both Hunt and Tyreek on his roster. FantasyPros doesn't like this team, but I think it can be sneaky good as long as Melvin avoids the Chargers. It looking like he will as I am writing this. I would be concerned about Tracy's RB depth, but the WR duo of Julio/Tyreek can mask that deficiency. Tracy is going to need a few breaks this year, just like Tyreek's son.

Commissioner's Comments

After Gary lamented me sniping Darwin from him, I should have known it was a bad pick. Now that McCoy has arrived in KC, my dreams of grabbing the next Andy Reid RB stud went up in smoke. I would have given myself an A+, but think I took on too much risk at RB having Devonta, MG3, and Darwin. If MG3 gets traded or does decide to play this year, then I can feel better about my RB depth. My WRs turned out better than I thought, but wish I went WR over Devonta in hindsight. I can still win in this league even if I've lost a few brain cells to my recreational activities.

This is the groutfit (google it) team. I am not sure what the "experts" see in this team. Other than Paul's keepers, I think his team blows. There's no upside! What does it say for the rest of the league when THIS TEAM is ranked in the top 4! Come on! Alshon is the only WR Paul has who is even a WR1 on their own team! Paul will be drinking early and often this season. The only way this team looks good is through beer goggles.

Commissioner's Comments

For a team that went 3 RBs to start the draft, the RB troop on this team sucks ass. Only thing more brutal would have been if Gary had picked Darwin Thompson instead of me! It's hard to pick 3 Chiefs offensive players and have them all be crap for fantasy, but somehow Gary did it! Only thing gonna keep Gary off the Crapper is Burhle's CRAPPER CURSE!

Commissioner's Comments

Everytime I think Travis is smarter than he looks, he goes and does a rookie move by drafting 3 TEs. To not have 5 RB and 5 WRs drafted is a Travis-ty. The 5th and 7th round picks should have been a RB and WR to make this team more competitive. This team has the depth of a Michael Bay film.

Commissioner's Comments

Krug must have been a member of the Jim Jones fan club after all the kool-aid he drank based on his picks. Baker in the 6th was crazy. While a lot of these names I remember being hyped on various SiriusXM shows, they still form a good foundation for a solid season. The experts don't like Krug's odds, but I think his team will do well, since he only has Justin for competition in the Bros division.

Hard to find a weakness on this team. Justin has to be Thielen good about his picks. Hyde to the Texans helps, but Hyde sucks no matter where he plays. It's just a matter of Wentz he clinches the Bros division. Shadow strikes again.

Commissioner's Comments

I would love to give Dana some smack on her picks, but Dana stepped up her game this draft. I thought her approach on focusing on RBs first was smart. Hard to do better than Mixon and Mack considering the quantity of RBs keeps this year. She did let her homerism show by drafting 4 Steelers players, but the Steelers are a good team to have players from. Broads division looks pretty tough this year as every team is fighting hard to get out of the bottom division.

Commissioner's Comments

There is not a whole to clap over with these picks. Goff in the 4th round?! Old McDonald in the 5th?! Only reason this team is so high for the rankings is because she was gifted Kamara last year and has Zeke. If Zeke holds out, her chances will plummet. Thanks to Linda's draft ineptitude, the rest of the Broads division still has a chance to steal the division from her.

Commissioner's Comments

Like his mom, David stepped up his game this year. His top 4 WRs are simply sick! He is going to have a hard time figuring out who to play at flex because he has so many good options to pick from. His only weakness is at his QB position, but as long as Lamar Jackson keeps running, he should but up enough points each week. Chubby Chasers will definitely be chasing for a championship this season.
